

Combined Degree Eligibility & Processing for UF Online Students

Wednesday, May 20, 2015

UF Online students are eligible to apply to a combined degree program. (See criteria and a list of programs for the 2015-2016 catalog: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/Pages/combined-degree-programs.aspx>.) If the student is accepted into the desired program and both the undergraduate and the coordinators agree to the academic plans, the student needs to be aware and agree to the following:

1. For the undergraduate courses, the student will continue to register in UF Online sections and pay UF Online tuition and fees for those sections.
2. For the graduate courses, the student will enroll in non-UFO sections and pay the tuition and fees charged to non-UFO students for those sections.
3. It is the responsibility of the student to make arrangements to be on campus for any face-to-face non-UFO courses.

Update, 8/5/15

Once the student is officially approved, Toby Shorey must be sent a copy of the final approved form, and Dan Hodges must be notified each term of the courses outside of UF Online the student is authorized to take. If they are taking all on-line distance grad courses (as you indicated would be the case in our phone call), no immunization or proof of health care should be required; however, if the grad courses are residential, we will have to figure out the process for applying those holds.
