

STUDY ABROAD for Pre-Health Students

Preparing for your future can be challenging and time consuming; however, it should also be full of rewarding experiences and personal growth. The UF Pre-Health webpage highlights seven areas that contribute to the development of a competitive pre-health applicant:

COMMUNITY SERVICE

HEALTHCARE-RELATED EXPERIENCE

LEADERSHIP & INVOLVEMENT

RESEARCH

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS

SHADOWING

A study abroad program is a perfect environment to enhance and explore all of these areas. So what are you waiting for? Study abroad!

This flyer highlights Pre-Health study abroad programs organized by program type. Note that this is not a comprehensive list but is rather meant to serve as a starting point. To search more programs, visit our website at internationalcenter.ufl.edu/study-abroad or use this QR:

To start planning your international experience:

- Discuss your goals for study abroad with a Pre-Health Advisor. Would you like to take classes related to your major or minor, or elective courses while abroad?
- Research programs! You can start with the programs on this flyer but also use the our website's program search, mentioned above.
- Consider meeting with a Study Abroad Advisor. We advise regionally, so it is a good idea to know which area of the world you're interested in before making an appointment.
- Follow the additional steps listed on the Step-by-Step Checklist on our website and let us know if you have any questions!

REMEMBER...

"You should not be testing, diagnosing, treating, or prescribing unless you are a licensed professional eligible to practice in the country you are in. This applies to working with people and animals. Every country has unique laws that govern who can provide patient care." If you have questions please speak with a UF Pre-Health Advisor.

As of 2021 all programs on this flyer follow stated guidelines.
